CLUB DE VINGT RUNS DESPITE RUDE RAID

Liquid Refreshments Carried Off, So Dancing Is Well Nigh Impossible.

ALL BLAMED ON GEORGE

As for Mrs. Hawkesworth and Mrs. Cater, They Are Utterly Astounded.

There was dancing at the Club de Vingt at 42 East Fifty-eighth street last night, but somehow there was a bit of a Vingt at 42 East Fifty-eighth street last might, but somehow there was a bit of a kink in the syncopation now and then that nover had been there before. Sad to relate, it was not the same as it used to be, and strange, too, because the same sweet toned orchestra wafted out its inviting, swaying harmony, the same lovely little cosey corners held the mame little tote-a-tetes and between dances the same gorgeously clad waiters brought to the mame dainty tables the same d-dr-ah, discovered! The reason. Twas the refreshments that were making this second anniversary of the club's founding less joyous than it might have been.

For last night over in the hostile, plebelan Knickerbocker Storage lay "oh, somewhere around $1,000 worih" of refreshments, rare and costly-wines in tall lean bottles and in squat fat bottles with skinny necks, and square bottles; quarts and pints bearing instructions that they must rest flat on their backs. Rude men from the State Excess Department had plucked these treasures right out from the club members own "private lockers" and hauled them away in a common truck and left not a drop of anything in the house but tea.

And Se They Send Out.

And So They Send Out.

So last night the dark skinned man who labors regularly at that duty simply had to trail back and forth from the gin mill a block and a half away on Fifty-ninth street for every single, solitary little thing that was wanted. And the very best that a Fifty-ninth street establishment can do should not be written on the same typewriter that types "private lockers" filled with rare vintages.

"private lockers" filled with rare vintages.

It took Mmes. R. W. Hawkesworth and A. A. Cater, who are joint proprietresses of the Club de Vingt, some time to realize that these rude excise men and their women accomplices had actually found anything in the club that could even be poured out of a bottle. But yesterday afternoon, some twenty-four hours after it had happened, the terrible truth had percolated and was clear as the rarest of all the rare wines that ever rested in a "private locker" in all the two years of the club.

It was the hour of The Dansant, and for the sum of $1.50—$1 even on all dancing days but Saturday—the tired business man could drop in on his way home, have a few—have a few dances. Mrs. Cater, the watchdog of the treasury, was traced by the sound of clinking gold to her post near the door.

Only the Very Best People.

"Perfectly ridiculous!" she announced.

publicity and using the name of the Club de Vingt. Why, we have the very best people in the city as our members and there is no sweeter little place in all New York than this. You see, from 10 in the evening until 2 in the morning this is strictly a private club, but in the afternoon from 4 until 7 we're a bit more democratic and our doors are open, so to speak. And in order that everybody may have a good time we have four young ladies and four young gentlemen here to sort of help out with the dancing. Lovely, isn't it? Sweetest place in town. Don't you think so? Just look around,"

It was some sweet place, certainly. A

It was some sweet place, certainly. A Tunisian garden, with dancing floor, swaying music, flashing jewels, fascinating perfumes, wit and beauty and laughter and with just a touch here and there of the bizarre—a gallant youth bowing to a matron, a debutante toying with her gold tipped cigarrette while the with her gold tipped cigarette while the waiter was hurrying—it takes several minutes to go down stairs and then way up to Fifty-ninth atreet.

"You see, we really have nothing to do with it anyway." Mrs. Cater con-tinued. "G. du Chesne leases the whole down stairs and has the supper and liquor privileges. His plan has been to mend down to the corner for all the drinks ordered and at night when the club members are here they must sign for everything they order. Friday af-ternoon, it seems, poor George had a little left over—you know how that sort of thing can hopen-and the the of thing can happen—and just before the afternoon crowd left I suppose he must have served several without sending the boy after them.

"And those horrid excise men and women who were dancing right here on women who were dancing right here on the floor went right down and took away everything. But it makes absolutely no difference to us. Mr. du Chesne, he is the one. He is down stairs, and those lockers where the club members keep their own stock are somewhere down stairs too."

But neither G. du Chesne nor the lockers could be found "somewhere down

Twenty in Name Only.

Mrs. Cater enjoyed talking about the history of the Club de Vingt. "We were established two years ago with twenty members—de Vingt, you know—clever, isn't it? Now we have 700 members, who pay $25 yearly dues. And this lovely place used to be Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbill's stable. Of course, Mrs. Hawkesworth and I own the fixures and everything, and the club members only come at night. They're the 'very best people in the town, too. You see you have people in the town, too. You see you have to be proposed and seconded by a mem-ber. And we have such fine times here ber. And we have such fine times here—lovely times—you know what I mean. So unnecessary for those rude people to bother us. This Mr. John T. McNelli could so much better have picked on some one else."

Mr. McNelli, special deputy Commissioner of Excise, promises to do this very little thing. "This is just a good start," he said yesterday morning before starting for Albany, where he made a special report of the case to the State Excise report of the case to the State Excise Department. "Numerous cabarets, res-taurants and so-called clubs have been selling all kinds of alcoholic drinks without paying the State for a license. We are now devoting the time of about one-half our detective force to looking after these places."

Meanwhile the rare wines of the Club (a Mingrest) and the control of the con

Meanwhile the rare wines of the Club da Vingt rest in safety in storage until the case comes up in court. And every one has had a fair opportunity to make a speech except G. du Chesne, who is credited with having much to do with the spilling of the beans—and the said G. du Chesne could not be found neither "somewhere upstairs" nor "somewhere downstairs." One rude person surmised that he must have heen hiding in the that he must have been hiding in the
